Optics. School children often have imperfect eyesight, and in fact this may be one of the causes of their backwardness in their studies. I make a thorough examination of children's visual powers and furnish proper glasses, if really needed, to improve their vision, otherwise not.

I have a large number of fine compensating eye which has perfect eyes, and which is not perfect is an annoyance to the brain, for the eye and the brain are very intimately connected.

Properly made lenses will correct any defects of the eye, and the compensating glass is scientifically made glass, except in cheap spectacles. In these the glass is made the same as for windows. I use pure and faultless material only. Dr. Parmenter, up-to-date Eye Specialist, Norway.

| South Paris Memorial Observance

Wednesday was all that could be desired as far as the weather was concerned for the exercises held in honor of our nation's defenders, with the exception of the wind blowing quite hard, making it quite disagreeable. Promptly at 10 o'clock 36 members of William K. Kimball Post, No. 184, formed in line in front of Grand Army hall and marched to the inside cemetery, accompanied by the ladies of the post. They were followed by members of Company D, 1st Maine and a large number of school children. Music by John Parsons, fife, and Grindill Steward, drum. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. K. Baldwin of the Congregation-at church. The Schubert quartette sang appropriate selections. After the decoration of the graves of fallen comrades they returned to Grand Army hall, where a bountiful dinner was served by the ladies of the G. A. R. circle.

At 4 o'clock a large number gathered at New hall to hear the Memorial address. The hall was artistically decorated in the national colors.

On the stage was seated Rev. J. W. Chesbro, Rev. A. K. Baldwin, Frank Starbird, Henry Hammond, H. H. Maxson, S. P. Mazim, and the speaker of the day, Judge C. F. Whitman of Norway. Before the address there was a recitation by Ida May Fields and also by Frank Starbird. Music was furnished by the Schubert quartette. H. H. Maxine was the singer.

Mr. Whitman delivered an address that held the closest attention of the audience and brought forth frequent applause. He alluded to the cause which brought on the struggle and spoke of some of the men from Maine, and especially from Oxford county, and their part played in the mighty drama of war that was enacted in 1861-65. Mr. Whitman said in part:

This is a day sacred to the memory of the Patriot dead. It was set apart for a purpose—not as an ordinary holiday—for sports, for games, for pleasure, but

The United States is a sacred duty, which the people owe to the man who saved the country and to this alone. Anything that detracts from the solemnity of the day seems to me like a desecration, and let me say in passing, that if, as has been proposed, the Grand Army of the Republic shall decide to observe the last Sunday in May as Memorial day, it will in my judgement accomplish the desired result.

The Union soldiers went away from the battle of the Northland, stirred by the burning spirit of patriotism with thought but of duty and sacrifice on many bloody fields, they won a glory that shall never fade.

I invite your attention for a moment to the greatness of our country and the marvelous blessings of prosperity and freedom its people are enjoying.

What wealth of soil and climate! what fruit of orchard and field; what beautiful landscape views, and what a people here among the Oxford hills. Where is there another village with schools and churches and places of business, more fortunate than this? It has been called, and justly so I think, the model village community of New England.

Nowhere does one find a larger per cent. of church-going and intelligent people. I do not say this in flattery or to please merely, but it is a tribute from the ocean of my heart to a people that have made me free.

Mr. Whitman spoke particularly of three localities in our land which are hallowed with mighty events that at particular periods took place in and around them, and the actors there are typical of those who have made this people, and their government, what they are today. On the shores of Cape Cod bay the nation had its birth in the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620.

Among the rugged hills and unweeded country of the upper Hudson river is the field where Briton and American, in October 1777, fought not for glory but for mastery— one to subdue, the other to be free. Those who fought for freedom triumphed.

In southern Pennsylvania, at a small place where many roads center, was fought on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd days of July, 1863, a mighty battle, or series of battles, which was the high water mark of our rebellion.

"After dwelling at some length on the history of our country, speaking of the great battles and the great work of Lincoln, he spoke of the deeds of heroism done by Oxford county people."

When the first calls for troops to put down the rebellion was made, the people of Oxford county, in common with the whole State, responded. Her sons flew to arms, left their pursuits like Put-

How many today, who walk your streets, know anything of the young Parie man, a graduate of Hebron and a student at college, who gave up his bright prospects to become a private in the Norway company of the 10th Maine Regiment? This Parie young man had been on the picket in the war of 1862 and had had no sleep. He became very tired before the 35 miles from Winchester to the Potomac had been covered, and he was weary when he rode a few minutes. A squad of rebel cavalry rode up to the house and called for the Union soldier to come forth, and as the Parie boy stepped to the door without a word the rebel officer shot him dead. Thus Solomon S. Kenney's life went out as the putting out of a candle. Perhaps this was the first sacrifice of Paris in the war.

He spoke of many other Paris men who had faithfully served their country on the field of battle, and told of the good work done by the different Maine regiments. All the batteries from this State did splendid service and on many bloody fields the men from Maine, who handled the big guns, won imperishable renown.

The southern leaders were terribly in earnest from the first and had a determined purpose and a deadly hatred that

Our government humanely treated all who were captured as prisoners, but at Andersonville, Florence, Salisbury, Libby and other prisons our boys were starved to death with a savage barbarity. This is the most sad and melancholy feature of all that took place during the war.

With all the heroes to be honored to-day let us not forget the northern mar-

Edward Boucher and A. N. Crommett will run the steamer Pennesseewassee on the lake this summer. They expect to start about the last of the month.

Annie Danforth and Leola Noyes intend to enter Tufts college; Carl Foss, Jasper Everett and Becca Mains the U. of M., where Foss will take the electrical course, and Everett and Mains the forestry course. Clark G. True of the class of '05 will take a course in forestry.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Wouldn't any woman be happy, after years of backache suffering, Days of misery, nights of unrest, The distress of urinary troubles, To find relief and cure? No reason why any reader Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Fort St., Traverses City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble, but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and weakness of the lower limbs."

lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

Spring's Reign.

The Spring has come to reveal make, Calling the tern from shore and brake, Where the soft breezes whispering low, Dispersed the frost, and vernal red flow. The red start wakes in sweetest song, With mule along, and the hills along, And robin, from the moor and fen, Gladens with song the earth again. The springing of the mountain hills, The mossy rocks, the verdant hills, And stony bloom, grouped here and there, Bedeck the emerald everywhere. Flaming maples, with palest green Of birch and poplar too, are seen Spreading their branches to the air, Inviting feathered songsters there. Tenants of the wood and stream, All come at once, as in a dream Of clearest visions, that impress The two-fold life within the breast; And hearts of men once more made bright, After the mists and frosts and blight, To awake exquisite joy again. And beautiful Spring once more doth reign.

JOHNSON'S Anodyne LINIMENT

ends pain at once, whether it's inside or out. This great National family doctor gets right down to the seat of the trouble, relieves the inflammation and works the cure, because every element in the formula is a soothing and healing one. A few drops on sugar will relieve, and in most cases cure, a cough, cold, sore throat or tonsils. It cures, cramps, croup, colic and diarrhoea. An application on strained muscles, or on cuts, wounds, contusions, chilblain or frost bite, takes out all the soreness and the ache.

Any inflammation, within or without, is greatly benefited or entirely cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. When it comes, pain goes.

How Japs Keep Strong

The Advertiser Readers Can Learn Something of Value from This.

Such a thing as a weakling is hardly known in Japan. The wonderful endurance of the Japanese soldiers and sailors in the recent war has been the marvel of all nations. Both men and women are well, happy and strong.

The reason for this, so careful investigators tell us, is that the Japanese from childhood up know how to keep well through care of the digestive system. If they have trouble with indigestion, heartburn, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, headaches, rheumatism, pains, back-aches, or any of the other troubles caused by a weak stomach, they treat themselves with some of the principal remedies that compose Mi-o-na, a stomach remedy that has already a large sale in Norway at Noyes Drug Store.

So uniformly successful has the remedy been in curing all stomach troubles where it is used in accordance with the simple directions given with each box, that Noyes Drug Store give a signed guarantee with every 50 cent package to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to benefit.

They take all the risk. If you have any stomach weakness, are nervous or fear that some article of food will cause trouble and indigestion, here's the opportunity to get well without risking a cent. Those who use Mi-o-na are able to eat anything digestible without fear of results.

Wanderers of Maine.

Yes, we are wanderers of Maine, We've wandered from the fold, And sweetest memories in our hearts, Is where the bobolink doth sing, In spring time's sun and rain, Where the river, brook and rill, Still whisper dear old Maine, Our childhood days without a care, We spent in dear old Maine, As we wandered through the woodland And up the pasture lane, Along the lake and river, And up the mountain side, Where blueberries grew in clusters, And blackberries with them vied; O, yes, we think of all these things, The joys of youth did fill, Our days with peace and gladness, In the school house on the hill, O, we are wanderers; yet we hope Some day to come to Maine, And there to meet the dear old friends, And clasp their hands again; To join the party up the lake And camp upon the shore, And feel the thrill of youth again, To drink the "hurrah" once more. As we think of all these things to-day, The scene of the balmy pine Seems waded to us in a dream, While in this distant clime, O, it would be a pleasant thing, Those dear old friends to meet And clasp them by the hand a-ain, 'Twould make our joys complete.

Message to the Poor Young Men.

The poor young man and his education is a problem, which finds its way to the heart of every public spirited citizen. In spite of the strong appeal which the subject makes, there are few schools whose sole purpose is the education of the poor fellow. It is in the lack of such schools which makes the Mount Hermon School, Mount Hermon, Massachusetts, a unique feature in our educational world.

Did Dwight L. Moody feel more strongly than others the need of the young man of limited means; or was he fitted by the similarity of his own case to sympathize with such young men? It was a combination of his circumstances which led him to found this school, which, in his own words, purposes "to help young men of very limited means to get an education such as would have done me good when I was their age."

During the twenty-five years of its history the school has undergone an evolution from an idea to a splendid school of four hundred men. From a few poor buildings in a pasture covered with stumps, the school has grown to a splendid campus with a thoroughly up-to-date equipment. That it has been able to do this is a testimony of the loyalty of Mr. Moody to the cause of the poor young man, and the loyalty of his friends to him.

Through the agency of the school 5000 young men have come to honor the memory of the great founder. Ninety-five per cent of these men have come from homes in limited circumstances. A question which each has had to answer before he could register as a student of the school is—"Can you afford to go elsewhere?" Sixty per cent of these men have relied solely upon their own efforts. The school, true to its purpose, helps such young men; first, by giving them work on the school farms; secondly, by fixing a low tuition charge, which is enabled to do by the kindness and liberality of its friends and alumni.

An attendant consequence of poverty is the enforced neglect of early schooling privileges. Many of the Mount Hermon men are several years beyond the mark of citizenship. At Mount Hermon they may do either grammar or college preparatory work with those of their own ages. Many older men come from the farms for a term or two and then return to their work. They come to the school because there they can combine courses in either practical or theoretical agriculture with any grammar or high school subject, from arithmetic to trigonometry and chemistry, or from English grammar to a study of Shakespeare. The average age of all men in attendance in 1905 was over 20 years.

The men at Mount Hermon come from many different sources. Eighty-two per cent of the five thousand men since 1881, have come from the different states in the Union. All States but four have sent representatives. The remainder are foreigners who have come from twenty different foreign countries—from the different countries in Europe and Asia; from our insular possessions and from South America and Canada.

As varied as the sources from which they came are their circumstances and walks of life. The farmer boys in a large majority, the New Yorker, the Spanish war veteran, the Englishman, the sailor, the Jap, the miner boy from the West, the son of a merchant who is interested in the school, the sons of clergymen—these men unite to form a healthful and useful literary and athletic life.

What these men lack in early training, they make up in purpose and in seriousness of application. They vary very much in their intellectual powers from the brilliant young fellow to the one who struggles in slow. It is the testimony of the college world, however, that these men make useful, successful college men. Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Wesleyan, Mount Hermon men among their prominent debaters, prize winners, office holders and popular men.

When in the coming summer from June 30th to July 3, the Mount Hermon men return for the thirty-fifth anniversary of the school, there will be present an assembly of men once poor, poor no longer because they have had the determination and energy to struggle against adverse circumstances; men who have worked their way through Hermon and college to success. That a man's course in life is in his own hands is illustrated every day in many schools; but nowhere is it illustrated in such a striking way as at Mount Hermon, where men come from the shops, the mills, the farms, and become students.

Let our poor young men remember this—that, in spite of difficulties and unfavorable surroundings, they may gain education if he has the courage and determination to work for it. In the educational world, "where there's a will there's a way," for any young man who is willing to devote time and energy to the accomplishment of an end. The world of the shop the professional world is open to such a one. Is it not worth while to try?

Charles Gammage Eastman, Born in Fryeburg, Afterward Called the Burns of the Green Mountains—Some of His Songs Proved Great Favorites.

Charles Gammage Eastman was born on the banks of the Saco in the village of Fryeburg, June 1, 1816. When about 12 years old he moved with his parents to Barnard, Vt., and his education was continued at Royalton, Windsor and Burlington, and he was graduated from the University of Vermont in the class of 1837. Even before graduation he was a frequent contributor to the editorial column of the Burlington Sentinel, of which at a later period John Godfrey Saxe was associate editor, and his writings were marked by a directness and force unusual in one of his years.

He founded the Lamolite River Express at Johnson in 1838 and the Spirit of the Age at Woodstock in 1840. In these papers he was prominent in his denunciations of the Whigs and their policy, and labored zealously, although unsuccessfully, to build up the fortunes of the Democratic party in Vermont. In 1846 he purchased the Montpelier Patriot, which he owned and edited until a short time before his death.

Mr. Eastman was postmaster at Woodstock and Montpelier for several years, and a member of the state senate in 1851-52. He had been in Vermont writing ever since his college days, and was frequently invited to read some of his longer poems before literary societies, but it was not until 1848 when, from his own press at Montpelier, his poems were issued in a volume of about 350 pages, that he was generally recognized as a poet.

His fancy was tender, wayward and delicate, and some of his lyrics are among the most beautiful ever written by an American. He has been aptly described as the "Burns of the Green Mountains," and his "The Farmer Sat in His Easy Chair," "The Pauper's Burial," "Come Sing Me the Song That You Sang Years Ago," and many other of his poems will never be forgotten.

Mr. Eastman was a handsome man, with features of classic outline, and his head crowned with dark, curling hair. He was a delightful companion and a sincere and steadfast friend. He died suddenly at Burlington in 1891, at the age of 75.

War Stories.

Two soldier couriers en route to Petersburg came to a forked road and asked a negro which was the best road to take. He replied, "Both roads lead there, one is a bad road and the other worse, no matter which one you take before you get half way dare you'll wish you took the other."

Our soldier friend says he has been on picket when the lightning would ring through the woods, while corps marching in with fixed bayonets in the thunder storm and never one man hit, although the storms were more severe than here, this being in Virginia. Cavalry men had sabre, carbine and revolver, sabre on one side and carbine on the other, both sides and no one hit by lightning.

Soldiers were flogged for misdemeanors. Whipping posts in the South, where negroes were whipped with cat-o'-nine-tails for misdeeds, were called "The white man's whipping post." A colored man was de-fused man dat was made. He was de lamb of God, cause he had de wool on his head. De way de dust white man cum he was an unruly nigger and put him in de stocks. They come to de school and called him a white man." One of the niggers in the congregation jumped up and asked "Who made de fence?"

The Oldest Couple in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ripley are living on their farm on Paris Hill at the advanced age of 89 and 85 years. Mr. Ripley was the son of Capt. and Mrs. Variah Ripley, the youngest of a family of thirteen children. At the age of 15 years he learned the blacksmith trade and he worked at that business in connection with his farm work. At that time he hammered out the shoes himself. Later he made baskets that had a ready sale.

Four of their eleven children are living. Two of his sons served in the Civil war, one, William being killed at Chancellorsville. They have celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding and they are looking forward to their 75th anniversary.

Five enforcement deputies swooped down on Canton Thursday and drove at once to the farm of Mrs. Lavorgna where they raided two buildings, and seized an amount of beer, a barrel of wine and a bottling machine. No arrests were made as Mr. Lavorgna was away. He is an Italian boss who lets out crews to work on railways, sewers and construction work all over Maine. He keeps a large number of men at his farm, in Canton and they always have had their beer to drink.

Elastic Paint.

Paint must be elastic—it must give and take with the shrinking and swelling of the wood and with the swaying of the building. If it is not elastic it soon looks seamy, cracks and breaks away, unable to protect the surface which it is supposed to cover.

The most elastic paint is Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil. It is so elastic, in fact, that a piece of soft white pine so painted may be struck sufficiently hard with a hammer to make a good sized dent, without cracking the paint at all.

Try it with a paint composed of zinc, barytes, and see what happens.

The hard, inelastic paint, which refuses to give under the tap of the hammer, will also refuse to expand and contract with the wood under the action of the sun, the rain and the snow.

To make sure of a paint which will not look seamy, crack and lose its hold, specify

Timely Hints.

Cooking in Hot Weather.

Of course every woman knows how disagreeable it is to keep a hot fire for hours in the summer time, in order to cook beans or meat, and for that reason, perhaps the following articles may interest some of the readers of this paper.

Having read in the late magazines and papers in regard to the new method of cooking, the following experiments were tried with fine results:

The first test was with beans. They were prepared in exactly the same way as for baking; were placed in the oven long enough to become thoroughly heated and boil briskly for 30 minutes; they were taken from the oven and placed in a common wash tub, and being taken that the bean pot cover was firmly in place. Newspapers were packed securely around the bean pot, in order for the beans to keep all the steam and heat possible. The boiler cover was firmly put in place and the beans were away in the pantry or some out of the way place, where it would not be disturbed. It was allowed to sit in this manner over night, and in the morning opening opened the beans were found to be finely done and warm enough to serve.

The second experiment was tried with meat. A piece of beef of three or four pounds was placed in a kettle and allowed to become thoroughly heated, and to cook briskly for about 15 minutes. It was then taken from the stove, closely covered and placed in a boiler in the same way as the beans. The meat was left in this way for about six hours and when opened was found to be nicely done and warm enough for serving.

During the coming hot summer days, by following this method it will be possible to cook a dinner without being obliged to keep a hot fire all day and make the house hot and uncomfortable.

Removing Wall Paper.

This spring a lady remarked to me that she had five or six rooms to re-paper and was dreading the work of getting the old paper off the walls and ceilings, when a paper-hanger's wife incidentally remarked, "Why, soak it with hot paste, and it will come off beautifully." The experiment was tried, and was very satisfactory, and a house of hard scraping, the directions are very simple. Make a flour paste, not quite as thick as for putting on paper, and apply it warm to the old paper with a whitewash brush or something of the kind. Cover about three strips of the paper with the paste, let it soften a few minutes and it will peel off like magic. Have a large basket to throw the old paper into, as it will be dauby.

If there is more than one coat of paper on the walls the paste is not so effective, though it helps some. This will be another argument against putting on new paper over the old. It is not a wise thing to do under any circumstances.

The old paper should all come off, and then every hole and crevice should be filled with plaster of Paris, putty or something of the kind. If there are any cracks over the base boards or in any other places, fill them up before hanging the new paper. This is a bar against spiders or bugs of any kind. The watchword is, be thorough—very, very thorough.

If the plaster on the ceiling or wall has loosened from the ceiling and is soon going to be in a condition to fall, take some large headed screws and put them through the plaster into the lath. A piece of thick tin an inch square or larger may be slipped under the screw before it is placed in the wall and in holding the plaster. Sink the screw into the plaster a little, so that there will be no ridge under the paper. This is an easy and neat way to fix loose plaster, and will make it last for some time.

William Cole of Lewiston, who was operated upon for appendicitis at the Central Maine General hospital, has been to South Paris to recuperate.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been to-day had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The effects were simply marvelous. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally. They bring back new life and energy, a bright eye, a clear brow and a happy heart."—Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by Noyes Drug Store; Shurtlee's, South and West Paris. 20-23

SOUTH PARIS.

Dogs Dying.

The mortality among dogs here which started a few weeks ago still continues. Dogs belonging to George Pratt and W. S. Jackson were taken with the same symptoms as were shown by two dogs which had previously died, but they came out all right. W. O. Frothingham's dog was not so fortunate, for he only survived the attack only fifteen minutes. Indications of poison were so strong in the case of the Frothingham dog that his stomach was examined, and strychnine found. No farther than this is known about the matter but it looks as if some one was leaving poison around in rather a negligent manner.

Mrs. Ira Murch is confined to her bed by illness.

"I sent my soul through the invisible, some letter of that After-life to speak; And by what soul returned to me, And answered, 'I myself am Heaven and Hell.'"

A Young Man Who Is Sure to Win.

I once stopped in a small country hotel for a few days and one afternoon noticed that the bell boy, a clean but poorly attired lad, was reading a text book on anatomy. The flashily dressed clerk detected my look of surprise and with a guileful said: "We've got an 'Esculapius' here; our John thinks he's going to be a doctor." The bell boy, when he showed me to my room, I asked him about his studies and how he could keep them up with his many duties to perform. He told me that he arose at 5 o'clock in the morning, built the fire, cleaned the office and dining room, met the 6 o'clock train and did chores and errands up to noon, but in the afternoon he only had to run a few errands and look after guests, and he usually had two or three hours which he desired to improve. His evenings were busy about the hotel until 9 o'clock, when he was off duty, but he did not go to sleep until 11 o'clock, so that he had between 5 a. m. and 11 p. m. from four to five hours in which he could study. He had determined to become a doctor and at that time he had been poring over that text book on anatomy for three months, the village doctor occasionally giving him a little satisfaction.

I asked him what he would do when he had mastered anatomy.

"Oh, I'm going to college," he replied, "I haven't planned just how, yet, but I'm going when I'm through with anatomy."

I believe I shall live to see the day when that bell boy is a famous physician. He has in him the principal requisites for the success of a doctor, determination to accomplish what he sets out to do, regardless of difficulties and discouragements, and he is finding happiness in the progress he is making.

"Count your many blessings, name them one by one; Count your many blessings, see what God hath done; Count your many blessings, name them one by one; And it will surprise you what the Lord hath done."

Cary Stevens is hauling posts for fencing on his farm and Mr. C. J. Curtis's.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Korwin are now in Lynn, Mass., where he has a good job at his trade.

A letter from our aunt, widow of the late Capt. G. C. Pratt says that she has returned to her home in Paris. She writes that she has had her husband's stone and paid for it out of her pension money. She should know that the U. S. Government allows $36 for all soldiers of Civil War. So she can write to the Quartermaster General at Washington and get it, and get her Grand Army Card to the paper that she paid for his stone and his funeral expenses. Uncle Sam is honorable in his dealings with soldiers and their widows.

Dennis Casey, on account of sickness, has returned to the hospital at Togus. He may come back to his health permits. He enlisted in the Civil War, Co. B, 3d U. S. Cavalry at Washington and served three years. He endured many hardships and contracted malaria from which he will never recover. All honor to the brave ones who loved our flag. He has a brother living on 30 Common street, in Lowell, Mass., who was a soldier.

"All that are able must go to their stables and start their horses and give them some hay."

For if they don't do it the Colonel will know it, and then there will be the Devil to pay."

Near the close of the way he said the Rebel soldiers flocked to the Union quarters and said, "For God's sake give us something to eat," and asked where the families were. Now we deck their graves with flowers, the Blue and the Gray, for they were soldiers brave and tears of love and pride on them, we shed.

We have had four days of rain. The 27th was Memorial Sunday and Nature shed tears on the graves of the fallen brave.

"The Bugle's wild and warlike blast, Shall muster them no more; An army now might thunder past And they not heed its roar."

The starry flag, "neath which they fought, In us a bloody day, From their old graves shall rouse them not, For they have passed away."

Let the teachers in every public school remember Memorial Day as a day to pay honor to those who saved our flag and Union.

"Far as our starry banner flies, Repeating Freedom's story, O bid the common school arise, A benison of glory; For what would flag or country be, To all our sons and daughters, If Learning's fount were sealed, and we Might never quaff its waters."

Mrs. Chas. Harlow has been sick for the past week.

Mrs. W. H. Eastman of Sumner spent one day last week with Mrs. A. M. Andrews.

Mrs. Edwin Thurlow is having another ill turn and is under the doctor's care. Alice Kimball is working for her.

I. W. Andrews made his annual trip to the Lakes fishing last week. He made a pretty good catch but not quite as large as in other years.

An Editor's Apology.

The editor who can please every one is not suited for this earth, but is entitled to wings. Human nature is so constituted that some of our readers would like to have us feed them on scandal; some would like to have us tell the unvarnished truth about them; while others would kill us if we did. It is a comforting thought to the editor to know that the Lord Himself did not please every one while on earth. We labor hard to entertain and please our subscribers but that we should occasionally fail is to be expected, but you will always find us willing to be forgiven.—[Old Town Enterprise.]

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Once more the Angel of Death has entered our ranks, and taken from our midst a beloved member, Brother Daniel Swift, therefore Resolved that in the death of our brother an honored and respected member of West Paris Grange has passed to that home above, where the Supreme Master of the Universe reigns. This fraternity loses a true brother and his family a loving father. He was ever ready to lend a helping hand and extend charity and good counsel to all, faithful in all trusts and all positions of responsibility.

Resolved that West Paris Grange P. of H., No. 388, extend to the bereaved families our sincere sympathy in their irreparable loss.

Resolved that these resolutions be placed on our records and copies sent to the families of the deceased, and a like copy presented to some local paper for publication.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

After Thirty Years.

The marriage of Daniel H. Tripp of Portland and Hannah Elizabeth Sheets of Harrisonburg, Va., was a culmination of a courtship that began many years ago, but was interrupted and not renewed until recently. They were married by Rev. J. W. Duffey at the Methodist church, only a few friends and the bride being present. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Tripp left the bride's southern home for Washington, Philadelphia and New York City for their honeymoon. They will reside on the groom's farm at Portland. Mr. Tripp is 50 years of age and his bride is quite a number of years his junior.

The groom is a native of Oxford County, Maine, but years ago he went to Rookingham and Miss Sheets, then a young girl at the home of her father, the late Joseph Sheets, for many years a well known farmer of the Melrose neighborhood. The acquaintance formed at that time resulted in a courtship but Mr. Tripp ultimately moved to Maine, and the couple after corresponding for some time drifted apart. He afterward married and Miss Sheets went to Harrisonburg.

About a year ago, after the death of his wife, Mr. Tripp thought of his sweetheart of former days. He made inquiries and found that Miss Sheets was still in Harrisonburg. He wrote her, the courtship of former days was renewed, and he went to Harrisonburg to press his suit and won.

The acquaintance of the couple began thirty years ago.

OXFORD.

Celebrates 86 Birthday.

Last Thursday a party of six spent the day at Thompson's lake in honor of the 86th birthday of Daniel Whitehouse of Brookton, who is the guest of relatives in town. In the party besides Mr. Whitehouse there were C. L. Farnham, Dr. E. B. Holden, George Hazen, A. F. Smith, Almon Crocker and A. N. Record.

O. D. Stinchfield of Auburn was recently in town on business.

Heloise Hersey of Boston is spending a few days at the Hersey homestead.

Mildred Wardwell and Ethel Flood were in Norway one day last week on business.

Jennie Meserve of Freedom, N. H., is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. S. McAllister of Main street.

Herman Wilson is moving his family into the house on Main street owned by Scott Patterson.

Mrs. Orpha Chapman, Florence Eaton and Gusella Wardwell attended the Y. M. C. U. convention at Rumford Falls last week.

Belle Corning of Hartford, Conn., has arrived to spend the summer in Oxford, and for the present is stopping at Belmont Lodge.

John D. Robinson and a friend, Henry Kious of Lawrence Mass., captured two fine lake trout at Thompson lake one day last week.

Dr. H. L. Bartlett, Rev. B. S. Rideout and Thomas Thibodeau of Norway, made a fine catch of fish at Thompson lake Wednesday of last week. They secured one salmon weighing four pounds and thirteen ounces, and five lake trout.

But for the prompt action of the employees of Morris Clark's basket shop on High street, the structure would have been destroyed by fire Thursday forenoon. Sparks from an unusually hot fire of waste caused the fire to catch on the dry roof.

George Richards of South Paris started on a fishing trip, Saturday, accompanied by a friend. When at some distance from the shore one of the oars broke and the men were obliged to pull in as best they could to the nearest landing place and foot the distance of a mile and a half to Oxford village.

PIGEON HILL.

J. H. King & Sons have got a new pair of horses.

Mrs. Nellie Thayer has returned to Norway to the shoe shop.

The Hollis Rich farm has been sold to a Mr. Adams of North Paris.

E. D. True has several men at work at his farm on repairs. He expects his family to come up in June.

Mrs. Eliza Collins has been with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Barron. Mrs. Barron was recently badly injured by a fall.

The State Cattle Commission is still at work testing cattle at the Morey Farm. Several were condemned last week. We understand the State has control of the entire stock.

Clarence Graffam has got his new ell on his house well started. Will Graffam has begun work on his house. He is to raise the roof one story. Wm. Martin is building a tool and store house. A. D. Thayer has done quite extensive repairs on his house.

CASCO.

Mrs. Hacker Hall is visiting her mother in Bridgton.

Dana Hamlin and family have moved to Boister's Mills.

Rev. J. L. Monroe finished her services in this church, May 20.

L. W. Holden and wife were in Portland one day recently.

Cyrus Mayberry of Brookline, Mass., was in town, Sunday, May 13.

Several from this place attended the Sabbath School convention at Webb's Mills, May 2.

Mae E. Hancock has graduated from Emerson school at Oratory, Boston, and returned home.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; the cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Edw. C. Cate's Cure. Send for circulars free.

TH

A Large Jam.
The largest jam of log that was ever seen in the Saco river stopped at the middle pier at Hiram Bridge reaching back over one and a half miles. There were millions of feet of white pine, hemlock and long spruce, some of the spruce being 40 feet long. The long spruce came down balancing on the pier of the bridge, others came down in V shape and caught on the shore causing a very perfect boom, and as the drive came down they jammed one another until they were eight to eleven deep. The river men worked about three days before the jam was started.

Charles Alexander, who five months ago was taken with a paralytic shock lies in a critical condition and will probably never be any better. Mr. Alexander when a boy, was kicked by a boy named Stuart and was so badly injured that abscesses formed in his joints, losing a piece of bone or two in most every joint on one side of his body. It caused him much suffering through his life and very likely was the cause of his receiving the paralytic shock.

Levi B. Robbins is very sick with a complicated set of diseases. He thinks his lot hard in this world. Levi has been very unfortunate in his life. A short time ago a bush struck him in the eye causing an inflammation which caused him much pain and suffering. There was so much inflammation the eyeball burst sending the contents eight or more feet or across a small room. By careful attention of the doctors they managed to save the other eye. Fishermen are having considerable sport catching trout from the brooks which abound in this section although there are not so many nice trout now as there were in our boyhood days. One thing there are more city and village sports who seek more after that kind of recreation than they used to. We can remember the days of long ago and the experiences we had in catching the wily trout. We must always have our hook caught around some twig or tree, usually so when mosquitoes were thick. We have had hundreds of them come for us at once seeking our life blood and without lighting would drive their harpoons into us as much as it seemed to us as were trying to extract a limb from a tree with our hook and line.

NORTH LOVELL.

Mrs. Lydia Wilson is quite feeble this spring. Bessie Andrews is helping Mrs. H. W. Palmer about her housework.

Mrs. Ella Mason is better and has called on several of her friends, recently. G. P. and M. L. McAllister brought two pairs of very handsome oxen last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lovejoy are staying with Benj. McKeen and wife at present.

Mrs. Abbie Fox of Center Lovell visited Mrs. Mabel McKeen last Thursday and Friday.

M. A. Sargent of West Lovell has been helping Perley McKeen with his farming several days.

Archie Evans of New York and Olive Hutchins of West Fryeburg visited at Marshall Evans', recently.

Mrs. Ephraim McKee is no better. Her daughter, Louise Curtis of Lynchville, stayed with her a part of the past week.

Mrs. S. J. Hill is making repairs on her house, laying new floors, painting and papering, also making some changes on the lawn.

Fred L. Harriman is helping H. W. Palmer, who is building a cottage on Rattlesnake island for Lewis Hill of Massachusetts.

The Crystal Valley D. of A. lodge here is in a very prosperous condition. Several new members have received the degree of late and there are several who will join the order in the near future.
